ON SUNDAY LEGISLATION.

Lecture by K. C. Russell of Seventh Day Adventists.

Mr. K. C. Russell, chairman of the religious liberty bureau, Seventh Day Adventists, delivered an address last evening at Naval Lodge Music Hall before a large audience. He outlined what, in his judgment, the results would be if the District Sunday bills should become law. "It is not difficult," he said, "to forecast the social condition which would invariably exist in the District should the Sunday bills now before Congress become law, for nothing would be permitted which could be offensive to Christian people, as is indi-cated in one of the bills. It would be necessary for the offended one to first prove that he was a Christian before the offending party could be convicted of the viola-tion of the Sunday law. This would neces-ing party could be convicted of the violation of the Sunday law. This would necessitate having some standard of Christianity in the District, by which the complainant could give satisfactory evidence that he was a Christian, in order to properly determine whether the complainant was a Christian. I am of the opinion that the state cannot deal with religious questions, but only with those which are civil.

"In view of the foregoing." he continued. "the first thing when these bills become law would be to have the District officials—policemen and all—pass an examination as to whether they are Christians. The question might be asked, Who would examine the officials to determine as to their degree of piety? I imagine some one will say that the clergymen would be the proper ones to assume that position. What class of clergymen? would be the next question, for there is a great question even among sects of reis a great question even among sects of re-ligion whether they all possess the real

Mr. Russell said that H. R. bill 16556
frankly stated upon its forefront that it is the "Sabbath legislation" which is desired. The speaker referred to an amendment to the bill requiring the closing of the world's fair at St. Louis on Sunday, which, instead of exposition on the Sabbath day, read, "mechanical portion of the exposition on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday." From this, he said, it would be necessary to amend the bill in order to carry out the intent of the originator of this bill to have the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, enacted by Congress as the day to be observed in the Diegonal gress as the day to be observed in the Dis-trict, instead of the seventh day, comnonly called Saturday.

He concluded by saying:
"If Congress has the authority to interpret one passage of the Bible, is not the way open to interpret other portions of the

PREPARING TO BUILD

WASHINGTON ELKS TO HAVE NEW CLUB HOUSE.

Site Selected on North Side of H Street Between 9th and 10th

Arrangements are being made by the members of Washington Lodge No. 13 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks for the erection in this city of a modern club house for that organization. As the first step toward the accomplishment of this object a committee has been appointed to conduct a competition to select an architect to make plans for the club house. The committee is composed of Col. Richard A. O'Brien, chairman; Lorenzo A. Balley, secretary, and Michael G. McCormick, who have appointed as their architectural adviser to assist in making the awards Louis

A. Simon, a local architect. The competition is limited, it is stated, to four Washington architects and one in Philadelphia. The prizes to be awarded to competitors will be as follows: First prize, the appointment to design and supervise the erection of the proposed building; second prize, $200; third prize, $100.

The building is to be located on the north side of H street between 9th and 10th streets northwest, square 374, lot 4. The building is to be of non-fireproof construction with the exterior designed for such materials as each competitor may deem appropriate, and the cost of the building is approximately $100,000, including the architects's fee and everything necessary to make the building fit for occupancy, with the exception of furniture and mural decorations. The height of the structure must not exceed that allowed for this class of buildings under the building regulations of the District of Columbia.

Equipment of Building.

The accommodations required are ap proximately as follows: Turkish bath, equipped with swimming pool; dormitory, or sleeping rooms, double bowling alley and double shuffle-board, buffet and buffet stock room, lounging room, reception room, 11brary, bifflard room, card rooms, manager's office, lodge room of modern arrangement, committee rooms, banquet hall, with capac ity for about 400 guests, and with stage, dressing rooms and tollet, cloak rooms, kitchen and a roof garden. The tentative plans proposed a modern and model club house which will be a marked addition to social Washington. The order of Elks is progressive in this particular and has magnificent club houses in several of the larger cities. Washington Elks on occasions of their pligrimages to these places have made note of this progressiveness and have had in contemplation for several years the construction of such a building

The roof garden will be a novel feature for the entertainment of the members and their friends on the long and sultry sum-mer evenings, and the banquet hall will be fitted also as an amusement hall. All in all, the new home of the Washington Elks promises to be a substantial and picturesque addition to the many pretty structures for which Washington is already

ducing Aggregation. That fun-making, fun-loving aggregation of employes of the government printing office known as the Modern Knockers gave one of its noted banquets last evening at the Ebbitt House. Mirth and good-fellowship ruled supreme from the opening 'knock" of the chief knocker that called all the other knockers to order, until the closing "knock" which dismissed them. After the several courses had been discussed the eral way to knock everybody and everything that came within the range of their mental or physical vision. Mr. A. F. Bloomer, as dean of the club made the introductory talk. He directed attention to the toastmaster, Mr. F. N. Whitehead, who he said should have been named "Fathead." Mr. Whitehead responded in kind, declaring that Bloomer was a fit subject for the home for aged printers at Colorado. Several keen saifrical thrusis were made at the typos who regularly patronize the races at Benning and as regu-larly "go broke" as a result. F. D. Smith, who is known as the "official scribbler of the Knockers," read the minutes of the last convention, and then recited an original poem entitled Knockers." Others who contributed to the fun of the occasion were A. P. E. Doyle, H. S. Sutton and F. A. Kidd.

The musical program was opened by the toastmaster stating that the program was interspersed with professional and amateur talent, which would be castly distinguishable as the evening progressed. Solos were rendered by Harry Stevens, P. M. Becker, jr., William Holt, J. Walter Humphrey and John R. Purvis. Miss Alice Hendricks was accompanist.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

Galbraith Church Continues Its

Golden Jubilee Observance. There were three special services at Galbraith A. M. E. Zion Church, on 6th street northwest, yesterday, and at each the church was filled to its utmost seating capacity. All of the services contained features celebrating the semi-centennial and golden jubilee, which will close next Sunday. At 11 a.m. the pastor, Rev. Dr. S. L. Corrothers, preached on the subject of the "Holy Eucharist," and the Lord's sup-

West, vice president; Anna Contee, secretary; Ann Fletcher, treasurer; Rebecca Hunt, sergeant-at-arms, and Melvina Lee, chaplain. The program was: Opening hymn, congregation; invocation; welcome address, Mrs. Mary E. Shaw; history of club, Miss Josephine Patterson; solo, Clarence Mayo; violin solo, William Carrol; instrumental selection, C. G. Harris; remarks, Rev. S. L. Corrothers; solo, Miss Mamie Fry; remarks, John C. Dancy; solo, W. Scott Mayo; solo, Miss Anna P. Cole; declaration, Miss Selena B. Lovett. At 8 p.m. King Solomon Lodge, No. 17, Knights of Jerusalem, and its auxiliary, Queen Deborah Council, entered the church in uniform, marched down the two main aisles and occupied six rows of seats in front and on each side of the pulpit. Rev. front and on each side of the pulpit. Rev. Dr. Corrothers preached a sermon to the organization, in which he gave advice to the order and the congregation. At the conclusion of the sermon A. P. Prioleau, contestant for a seat in Congress from South Carolina, offered prayer.

The choir rendered a special program of fine selections at all of the services. The collection for the day amounted to $149.46.

There will be a meeting at the church

There will be a meeting at the church this evening, when the various problems in any way affecting the progress of the race along all lines will be discussed. The principal speakers will be Miss Mattle E. Bowen and A. P. Prioleau of South Carolina. Rev. Dr. Corrothers will preside.

MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY. Philippines Discussed by Representative Grosvenor.

Representative Grosvenor gave a talk last evening on the Philippines at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church. The speaker was a member of Secretary Taft's party which journeyed to the orient last year. The missionary anniversary of the church was held last evening and the work of the various Sunday school classes in collecting funds was announced. At the opening of the meeting Rev. Dr.

J. E. Smith, pastor of the church, made a seeming desire of the filipino parents to have their children taught the English language, and closed with the remark that philanthropists should combine their gifts and contribute to the growing industries of the islands, which would be of more value than the endowment of chairs in universities or establishing libraries where they were not needed. During the evening Miss Caros sang a solo.

Minster Discusses "The Age Limit." A lecture on "The Age Limit for Government Employes" was delivered last evening at the Dumbarton Avenue M. E. Church by Rev. W. G. King. He insisted that in retiring all men at the age of seventy years by the government an undentable injustice would be done many efficient men. The government, it was added, could not afford to do such injustice. The speaker added that the demand for the retirement of the old was due largely to the upstart aspirations of the young, in order that places might be made for their advancement.

In conclusion the speaker remarked that if ninety-nine men were inefficient and one was worthy of his place. Congress could not afford to do that one man an injustice.
